

Community Service Hours for Student Leaders

Students who hold advised exec positions within official TAMS organizations have the potential to earn up to 10 community service hours each semester for their service to the TAMS community. At the end of each semester, the advisors of each club will send Ben their recommendations for each of the student leaders in the clubs they advise. Based on this recommendation, Ben will make the final decision.

Determination of hours is based on effort and enthusiasm put into your position as club leader of your organization – they do not correspond to actual hours spent being a club leader. The following provides what the advisors and Ben will be looking for in order to give club leaders the maximum of 10 hours:

- Attends all exec meetings
- Attends all club functions/activities
- Actively contributes to the direction of the club
- Excels in his/her executive position – the other members of the board can count on them always
- Protects unity of the team and integrity of the organization – i.e. they are not divisive or indifferent.
- Etc.

Generally, if you give about a “5” effort, expect to get only 5 hours for that semester, and so on.
